Fred Thayer not only inscribed his name on the tablet of "great Harvard ball players," but he did more than that. The eather's mask was the creation of Fred Thayer's Yankee ingenuity. It came about in this way: After eathing Ernst for a season Tyng went to Thayer and said he would not stand up any longer and run the risk of having his face stove in. Thayer had no alternative. He must either devise some protection for Tyng's face or lose him as a catcher. Why not cover the face with a cage, thought the quick-witted captain. No sooner did the idea occur to him than he went to work to carry it out. He spent his spare time in benda cage, thought the quick-witted captain. No sooner did the idea occur to

It was taking a risk, but I was dead broke. Miss Irene," he continued, his voice quivering with emotion, "you have saved a despairing man from the fate of a suicide and won the lifelong respect and esteem of a grateful heart. Good evening."

Never, not even in the most brilliant days of the empire, has Paris seen a more splendid fete than M. Cernuschi's ball: It was an assemblage of the most brilliant people in the cosmopolitan society of Paris, in the most splendid private mansion in the world. I will not here enter upon a description of M. Cernuschi's house, in the Avenue Velasquez. It has long been famed as one of the great sights of the city. People speak of its marble stairway and its bronze gallery as they do of the Taj Mahal, or the Sistine frescoes. Not the least interesting feature of it all, more over, is the fact that M. Cernuschi has made a will giving it all, at his death, to left its gift, I suppose, cannot be less than $4,000,000. It is comparable only with the Due of Aumale's gift of Chaptilly. The value of this gift, I suppose, cannot be less than $4,000,000. It is comparable only with the Due of Aumale's gift of Chantilly. I need only say as to the size of the mansion that a thousand invitations were sent out, by actual count more than two thousand guests were present, and yet nowhere and at no time was there any crowding. M. Cernuschi was clad in a Japanese costume, and so were the dozen bachelor friends who assisted him in receiving the guests, and as they stood together at the top of the great marble staircase they presented such a scene of picturesque magnificence as is not to be described, nor event to be imagnical, save in the dreams of one who has been reading "The Count of Monte Cristo."

There was a bridal couple coming in on the Bay City train, the other day, and the passengers in that particular car were on the grin most of the time over their autics. The bride had got the man she loved, and she didn't care a copper who saw her pillow her head on hisshoulders. The bride-groom had got a farm with his wife, and if he wanted to feed her gundrops or squeeze her hand whose business was it? A little old man, dried up and bald headed, sat directly in front of the couple, and he looked around so often that the young husband finally explained:

"Welse ivet wavaird" charming in a Japanese dress. Her father was attired as a Hindoo Rajah, father was attired as a Hindoo Rajah, and not, as one might have expected, as Velasquez. Mme. Pasta, the actress, wore a set of real imperial Russian sables, one of less than a dozen sets in the world owned by persons outside of royalty. She had also a marvelous caronet of pearls and diamonds said to be worth more than $100,000. I will not attempt to tell who all were there; unless I simply say everybody, except M. and Mme. Carnot, who are in mourning.

"GILBERTSON'S OLD METHOD" ROOFING TIN.

Every Sheet Stamped with Brand and Thickness. Every Box Guaranteed and Marked with Actual Net Weight.

Imperfect or Waster Sheets arise in the manufacture of all Roofing Plates; but no imperfect or waster sheets can be had of the "Gilbertson's Old Method" brand, for the reason that they are not imported; hence but one kind can be had, and that the best one sheets can be had, and that the best one could be had of the "Gilbertson's Old Method" has failed to be chosen over all other brands of roofing plates, where quality and not price was the consideration. We challenge contradiction of this statement. Reasons why the "Gilbertson's Old Method" plates were selected by the Government for the roof of the Whits House at Washington. We quote from the specifications as follows:

"The Government desires to secure the Best Quality of Dipter Roofing Plates, and samples showing imperfection in size or weight will be rejected."

"Comparative tests will be made for weight, ductility, uniformity of plates and thickness and quality of coating, all of which, as well as the prices, will be considered in making the award."

"The United States desires only the Best Class of Materials, and parties who imagine that any other class will be received are respectfully requested not to bid."
